EXCLUSIVE!

Billie & Sam fly the flag for summer!

The sizzling TOWIE twosome on why Britannia really will rule in 2012!

➔ AS IF the Diamond Jubilee hasn't already made you prouder than ever to be British, here are two more reasons to fly the flag this summer – it's Essex's very own royalty in all their patriotic glory!

Hi guys! How are you enjoying summer so far?
Billie: Hello! We've been loving the sunshine, but we're literally just about to dash off with pretty much the whole TOWIE cast to Marbella. ▶

VIVA EL TOWIE!

See Sam and Billie in Spain in The Only Way Is Marbs on ITV2, 10pm, Wednesday 13 June.

“I’d give the Queen
a spray tan and Essex
her up!”

Sam: Hi Nuts! Yeah, I'll be sharing a villa with Billie, Gem and Jess in Marbs, so we'll all be having so much fun and getting up to mischief.

To celebrate the Diamond Jubilee, how would you "Essex up" Her Maj?

Billie: I'd take one of her lovely pencil skirts up a little bit, give her a spray tan, put a bit more make-up on her and really Essex her up. Maybe minus the vajazzle!

Sam: Ha-ha! A vajazzle would not be appropriate!

Are you excited about the Olympics coming to the UK?

Billie: Yes, I can't wait. Everyone's super excited in Essex 'cos we're not far away from it all. I've got tickets for the volleyball.

Sam: Apparently, they're the fasting-selling because all the girls are in bikinis and that's what the boys want to see. You picked the sexiest one!

We're pretty excited about Euro 2012. Who are you backing?

Sam: England!

Billie: Yeah, good luck, England. I hope we win. If they do we'll be partying more than ever. I think we're going to have a big TOWIE Euro 2012 barbecue.

We can't wait for our invite. Finally, what's best about the British summer?

Billie: I just like how everyone lets their hair down. The first sniff of summer and suddenly the trousers come off and the bikinis go on!

Sam: Yeah, plus we have beer gardens. The rest of the world doesn't. As soon as work's finished, everyone goes out and has a blast in summer.

“We’re going to have a big
TOWIE
Euro 2012
barbecue!”

GABBY LOGAN Final Score
"Holland, because I'm in orange trousers!" [Shows off trousers.]

ALAN HANSEN Match Of The Day
"Spain have got the best players and they know how to win."

CHRIS WADDLE Radio 5 Live
 "The core of the Germany squad is at a great age, with enthusiasm and a lot of experience between them, so they'll have that little bit extra, as opposed to the last World Cup when they fell ever so slightly short. I can see this German side dominating for years to come."

Euro 2012 – the pundits' choices

Our pundit pals pick prospective prize winners!

MATT HOLLAND TalkSport
"Germany are the team I fancy most and the ones to watch. Spain have really got some great individuals, but I think Germany are more of a solid team and they're very hungry – you could see that as they won all their games in qualifying."

ROBBIE SAVAGE ESPN
 "I think Holland have learnt from their mistakes in the World Cup final and have got incredibly talented players. France are a good dark horse, though. They've got good young talent coming through. They've played some very good football."

ALAN SHEARER Match Of The Day
"Spain have got the best players, they play an entertaining way and they score goals. Been there, done it. A few years ago, you could have labelled them similar to England in that they always promise so much, but for the last two tournaments they've been amazing."

JEFF STELLING Soccer Saturday
 "Spain are deserving favourites but I think they might be beginning to creak. I actually fancy France to win it. Manager Laurent Blanc has got them playing well, they recently beat Germany on their home turf. They could be hitting form at the right time."

JAKE HUMPHREY BBC Sport
 "I'm still going for Spain. I don't think what they've done in the past has any bearing on how they'll do at this tournament. I think they've had their fingers burnt in the Champions League and they've still got incredible talent and know what it takes to win a tournament."

JONATHAN PEARCE BBC Sport
"Germany will go very close because they've got the same group of players they brought through from the under-21s, the bulk of the team they had in the 2010 World Cup. Ozil, Khedira – Götze has come through. Neuer is a fantastic goalkeeper."

PAUL MERSON Soccer Saturday

"England have a chance. It's the first time in ages where not everybody's expecting major things. Spain won't be the team they were. It's a difficult ask but Steven Gerrard should be fresh. So will Wayne Rooney when he's back. We'll be very hard to beat."

DAVID JAMES Ex-England No.1

"With their development from the under-21s through to the World Cup, the Euros will be a natural progression for Germany. I'm not sure Spain have the will to win it again - they've lost their unbeaten run and Spanish teams didn't do so well in Europe this year."

GARY LINEKER Match Of The Day

"I've gone for Spain in the last two tournaments so I'm not going to go against them now. But I think Germany might really push them - I think they have some really good young players coming through and they're the only side I can see pushing Spain close."

Nuts 16-page Euro 2012
Special starts on page 39!

The verdict

Surprisingly, most pundits don't tip hot favourites Spain, instead backing the ever-dependable Germans for Euro glory. England? About as much chance as the Eurovision Song Contest!

DANNY MILLS Radio 5 Live

"Germany are my favourites. They know how to win tournaments. They have two more years' experience after the World Cup and have some really good players. The fact that Bayern Munich got to the Champions League final will give them that little extra boost."

MARK BRIGHT BBC Sport

"I think three teams can win it - Spain, Germany and Holland, but I think Germany. I'm not sure if Spain are on their way down. I like the look of Germany. The number of goals they score, they've got experience and youth and are very efficient. I think it's their turn."

Stunt fail!

Fearless kayaker tries to match world record. Doesn't go as planned...

WE'D LOVE for this story to be one of a plucky, against-all-odds success, as seasoned, utterly fearless kayaker Rafael Ortiz conquers one of the world's highest waterfalls, grabbing plaudits, international acclaim and equalling a world record in the process.

But sadly, it's none of these. Because, after falling serenely through 189 feet of foamy air at Washington State's Palouse Falls, Ortiz was thrown out of his kayak, rendering his attempt null and void. It turns out there are rules for this sort of thing, and remaining in your tiny boat is one of the biggies. The "Titanic rule", we think it's called.

Palouse Falls facts

- At 198 feet, Washington State's Palouse Falls are higher than Niagara Falls' paltry 176.
- This is only the second time the falls have been negotiated by kayak. The first to do it was Tyler Bradt, in 2009. He also remained seated to take the world record.
- The drop takes four full seconds of girly screaming (if we did it).
- Weirdly, the bigger the waterfall, the bigger the "aeration" [circulation of air through water] at the bottom, so the softer the impact. One excuse less for Ortiz, then!

After four hours of paddling, Barry finally approached the top

FIFA 13 first play

Nuts gets hands on with the footy game's big update!

WHILE THE international squads were training their expensive, officially merchandised socks off in preparation for the Euros last week, Nuts was doing some training (of sorts) of our own by exercising our shooting fingers with the first play on this year's Fifa.

Developers reckon they've made it even more realistic, claiming players have to deal with real ball physics with their first touch, battling to control the ball, have greater control when dribbling and free kicks are much more varied. It's closer to the real thing than ever before, they say. But what say us?

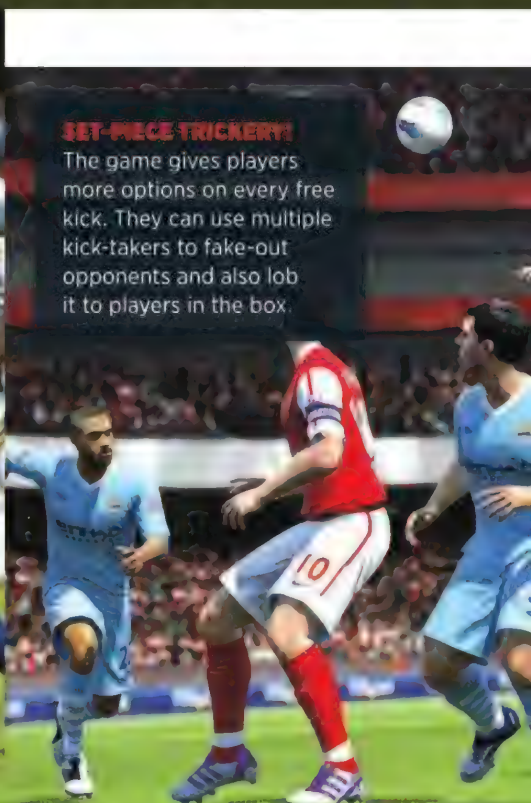

CLOSE CONTROL

Fifa 13 has rejigged the dribbling controls from the popular Fifa Street. Players now have better control and more chances to show off their footwork.

SET-PIECE TRICKERY!

The game gives players more options on every free kick. They can use multiple kick-takers to fake-out opponents and also lob it to players in the box.

TIME YOUR RUN!

The game also boasts an improved AI that allows players to time or bend their runs off the ball, to prevent team-mates being caught offside as often.

GET STUCK IN!

The developers have worked on the game's "player impact" engine. Players can now push and pull each other off the ball, as long as the ref doesn't see!

CLASS ALWAYS TELLS!

Real-world ball physics now impact on players' first touch. If you're going to volley it, make sure you use a skilled player or it'll end up in Row Z!

LOOKEY LIKEYS!

The game's graphics and sound have never looked or sounded better. Players look more like their real-life versions and there's a better match atmosphere.

Turns out the button marked "eject" worked!

Ferrari 458 gets Enzo-ised!

Tuner Mansory gives the Spider a Monaco-flavoured facelift!

● There's no doubting that the original £199k Ferrari F458 Spider leaves the Maranello factory equipped with looks, driving experience and excitement worth doing time for. And with 562 braked horsepowers, the standard 458 can get to 62mph in 3.4 seconds and weighs 1,430kg, thanks to its all-alloy construction. But the man at Mansory wasn't particularly impressed with it. So he changes some bits. And called the results of his handiwork the Monaco Edition.

● First it was the Ferrari's face. A restyled nose cone mimicking the Enzo was woven from carbon fibre and fitted up. A bonnet was then built to match the swooping lines of said nose. Next to its LED eyes – Mansory has whisked up a pair of vented carbon-fibre sideburns, which match the bare carbon bumper gills and winglets.

● Then on to the Spider's backside. Gone are the perforated grilles either side of the rear lights, replaced with combed lines by Mr Mansory (which look just a teeny bit like 458's arch enemy – the McLaren MP4-12C). A new rear diffuser now hosts two jumbo oblong exhausts

Car just couldn't shake off its bad mood

instead of the original triple circles. As you'd expect, it's also had a visit from the carbon-fibre fairy.

- If the Spider looks lower than normal, that's because you'll have noticed its 20mm suspension drop thanks to some revised shock absorbers. The wheels are now forged things of beauty, 20in up front and 21in at the back.
- For the interior, Mr Mansory has restitched the seats in a diamond pattern, but using red and white – to mirror the colours of the Monaco flag.
- The Monaco Edition also ups the power and reduces the weight. This spider weighs 60kg less than when it left Ferrari's hands, and the 4,499cc V8 has 20 more bhp, taking the big figure to 582bhp. That in turn has bumped the drop-top's top speed beyond the magic 200mph mark (205mph) and taken 0.2 seconds off the 0-62mph, to 3.2 seconds.

- And the price if you want to own one of only three to be bolted together? Around £350k. Book now. Avoid disappointment.

'My arm was hanging open!'

Fish fail leads to laceration!

THIS GHASTLY wound may resemble the toothy work of a great white, but Nuts reader Matthew May actually sustained this injury while tending to some humble goldfish.

It should have been a routine chore, but when the 20-litre fish bowl exploded in his hands, the results were a hole in the arm, tendon damage and shredded nerves.

"My arm was hanging open and the fish were flapping on the floor," recalls Wolverhampton chap Matthew, 31. "Blood was spraying out all over the kitchen. It was a right mess!"

All in all, a pretty eventful lunchtime for the engineer then, who's on the road to recovery after 15 stitches and physiotherapy. And rest easy – no fish were harmed during the making of this injury.

She won't go on the pill!

My other half and I always use condoms, but I'd like not to have to rely on them all the time. She won't go on the pill, though. Is this unfair of her?

KEN Leeds

The contraceptive pill affects each woman differently. Some put on weight, develop acne or experience increased hormone problems. It's also only 97 per cent effective. If your other half isn't taking the pill, it's likely for one of those reasons. It's not a case of: "Is this unfair of her?" but a case of: "You're being unfair." Do you want to take a ballooned, screaming, spotty woman to bed or enjoy a sane, unscarred, slim woman sucking on your genitals?

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

She is ages getting ready!

My girlfriend is obsessed with her looks. Whenever we go out, she takes hours to get ready. We're always late because she spends so long in front of the mirror. What can I do?

ALI Brighton

Put some rules in place. Don't wait for her – simply leave before and meet her there. You'll see how effective this is immediately! Of course, you could simply enjoy the fashion shows she puts on for you. She wants your approval. Mould her to your exact taste and tell her to start getting ready earlier. And buy her more expensive make-up – the more it costs, the less she'll wear.

gym but it's boring and healthy food is rubbish. What can I do?

DANNO Hull

You show no enthusiasm for losing weight. Your psychology isn't positive. To get results, I'd trade in the lads' holiday and go somewhere to detox. Eat fresh fish, good wines and absorb the sun (in moderation). "Lads' holiday" suggests you're young and if you admit you're "a bit overweight", you're more likely a lot! Young and fat isn't going to get you anywhere, career-wise or ladies-wise!

His missus flirts with me!

My mate's girlfriend comes on to me. Last time I went round, she answered the door in her underwear. Should I tell him?

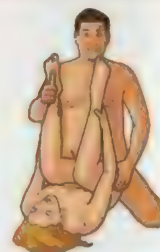

KARL via email

If she's flirting, stay cold-faced and don't say anything. If it continues, stop spending time with your friend. He'll soon ask why and you can then tell him. She could just be playing with you, though, and still be very much in love with your mate. Just keep quiet until someone else notices and decides it's a problem. Until then... what underwear was she wearing?

- If you've got something to ask Danni, just email her at thelesbian@nutsmagazine.co.uk or write to her at the usual address on p72.

THE DIAMOND Jubilee! The Olympics! England winning Euro 2012! (Ahem.) Yes, folks, this summer, the envious eyes of Johnny Foreigner are fixed on glorious Great Britain and all her amazing assets. And who better to fly the flag than a truly belting British babe? So fry up the full English, pour the pints and celebrate the nation's sexiness with Sophie! Her Maj would be proud.

Hi Sophie! Tell us, what's so brilliant about Britain?

Hello! Well, I think Britain is great because everyone else in the world loves us! We've got the best accent in the world, the sexiest blokes and the best babes. The British girls could definitely give the Playboy ladies a run for their money.

Who's your favourite Brit babe?

I'd probably say Lucy Pinder. She's got naturally big boobs and that's something a lot of girls in other countries don't really have. I reckon there's something more honest and accessible about British boobs.

What about the blokes? Who should be flying the flag for us?

Jason Statham! He's a nice Cockney chap who's done really well for himself. I think we should be proud of James Bond as well. Daniel Craig does a really good job and is well fit!

What would you say to Prime Minister David Cameron if you had a chinwag with him?

I'd ask him to relax the rules on nudity. Ha-ha! I'd insist on more of it, and ask for a bank holiday where it's OK to walk around with your boobs out!

And if you were Queen for the day? What laws would you make?

I'm all up for making sure everyone has a street party. We need a queen who can inject some fun into the country, 'cos it's been a bit miserable recently. I'd rid the Royals of their prudish image! ▶

“If I met the PM, I’d ask him to relax

public nudity!”

SOPHIE READE

“I should do
a streak at the Olympics! That would spice it up!”

Who do you prefer –
Kate or Pippa?

Oh, I'm Team Pippa all the way. I think she's cooler and she's got the nicer bum out of the two. It's all about the bum, isn't it? She's got the best buttocks in Britain, I reckon!

Are you excited about England's chances at Euro 2012?

Well, I'll be watching. I think even if you're not that into football you should be getting behind England, getting down the pub and having a good time. I'll be putting my little England top on and singing the national anthem.

What about the Olympics?
Excited about the games coming to the UK?

Yeah! Of course! It's everywhere at the moment, isn't it? I think it's brought a really great buzz to the UK and everyone should take advantage of the feel-good factor. I want to go and watch them. In fact, I should do a streak through the Olympic Stadium, shouldn't I? Ha-ha! That would spice it up a bit!

What do you really miss about Britain when you're abroad?

The food. I'm such a fussy eater when I go away. I really miss a full English breakfast with all the trimmings. You can't get any better than that. I think we're good at drinking, too. It's a good party country!

More importantly, how many cups of sturdy British tea do you drink a day?

I'm a tea-aholic. I reckon I can probably drink about eight cups a day, even in the hot weather. That makes me pretty patriotic, doesn't it?

Absolutely! So tell us, where's the sexiest part of the UK, in your humble opinion?

Well, I'm a northern girl so I'm bound to say Manchester. The boys and girls there are fit and never disappoint. You get some really feisty girls there too. You should get up there if you want to pull a sexy Brit! ►

SOPHIE READE

"I look at some of the girls in Nuts and think, 'Whoa!'"

Do Brits have the best boobs in the world?

Of course! Nowhere else in the world do you get magazines like Nuts or the girls who are in them. I look at some of the girls in Nuts and think, "Whoa! I didn't even know you could get boobs that big!" Ha-ha! But then they're always proper nice and easy to get along with too.

If you could banish any British person from the country, who would it be?

It'd be pretty unfair to pick one person out. I'd banish rude people in general. Brits have a reputation to uphold as being warm and welcoming, so if you're going to be rude you can bog off to another country.

Do you reckon we'd survive a night out with you?

I reckon so. There'd be lots of drinking shots though, so you'd better get yourself prepared for it! Actually, apparently I'm a bit of a lightweight so you'd probably last longer than me.

Where would you go in the UK if you wanted a really amazing night out?

I think this year London will be great for a night out. There's the Olympics and we've had the Queen's Diamond Jubilee already so the place is really buzzing. I think it'll be cool just to get loads of drinks and just sit in Trafalgar Square soaking up the atmosphere.

Big Brother* starts again this week. Will you be watching?

Of course! It's still dead exciting, isn't it? I think it gets better and better every year, and the celebrity ones have been amazing. I'd definitely go back in if they offered. It's like a big 18-30s holiday in there.

Thanks, Sophie! Finally, do you have a message for the Nuts readers?

Whether you're reading this in Britain or you're abroad, well done for being so loyal and amazing and for making Nuts the best mag in the world, never mind the UK!

$TEVEN

Hi Stevie! Were you surprised to be given the England captaincy?

I was a bit! I had it settled in my mind that it'd probably end up being Scott Parker, who was appointed by Stuart Pearce for the last [friendly] game. With Roy becoming England manager it all changed and I was very honoured to get the phone call.

What can you bring to the role?

Experience and enthusiasm for the team and the task we've got ahead. I've captained England before but mainly as a fill-in when someone else hasn't been available. In a way this is like me starting all over again. As I say, it's an incredible honour and something I think I can make a really decent fist of.

So no fears?

Nope, exactly the opposite. I relish the responsibility.

You worked with Roy Hodgson as Liverpool coach – what kind of England manager will he make?

I believe a very, very good one. At Liverpool I found Roy to be a decent man and thoroughly knowledgeable about the game. Look at his CV and you identify someone almost made for the job. I enjoyed working with Roy at club level, I really did, and I'm delighted to be working with him again with England.

What do you say to people who think the England job is too big for him?

That they are entitled to their opinion.

However those who know something about football will see it differently. Roy's track record, all over the world, is first class. He'll bring all those years of knowledge and experience into the England camp. We're lucky to have him.

"Ow, this deodorant stings!"

It didn't go well for him at Liverpool though...

I've said enough about Roy in a lot of press conferences. Look, he had a pretty difficult job, coming in when the majority wanted Kenny, a club legend, to take charge.

Sometimes it doesn't work out through things beyond a manager's control and I think that's what happened there. Roy is the same excellent manager he always was.

So is the message "get behind Roy"?

Of course. I want every England fan to support the manager and the team. Things have happened really quickly and we've got a lot of work to do in a short time. But it's up to the players to understand what the manager wants and put those plans into action.

GERRARD

THE ENGLAND CAPTAIN IS
RARING TO GO FOR EURO 2012

Does it help that England are hardly favourites to win 2012?

Yeah, you could make a case for that. It can be hard when there's such a high level of expectation. I'm not complaining, though – ask any of the lads and they'll tell you the goal is to win the Euros. You have to have that mindset to perform at the highest level. But being underdogs maybe suits English sides...

Like Chelsea recently showed in the Champions League Final?

Absolutely, and like Liverpool did in 2005. No one can say we were the best team in the tournament yet we had a group determined to dig in and not be beaten. Yeah, it would be lovely to play fancy, free-flowing football and win every match 4-0 but sometimes you just have to do the dirty stuff well. Don't get me wrong, England have some incredibly talented players but our mindset will be as important as anything else.

Can Andy Carroll be the spearhead for this all-new England team?

Naturally, everyone always wants to ask about Andy and all I can do is give out the same answer! He's a terrific lad who's had a pretty mad 18 months or so, and he's received a lot of unfair criticism at times. But he's never once stopped working hard for Liverpool. At the end of the season, we started to see what a fit and firing Andy Carroll can really do – he terrifies defenders when he puts himself about! His aggression and physicality would make him an asset for any team, including England.

What is key to England doing well at the Euros?

Starting well is essential. It'll take a little bit of the pressure off and get the whole country behind us. We've certainly got the players to cause any opposition problems, and I'm confident we'll get stronger day by day.

You sound very optimistic!

You have to be optimistic. I'm not making any big statements but I know we'll have a bunch of players and a coaching staff giving every single thing for the same cause. Hopefully, you'll see an England team that's organised, difficult to beat and playing a system which allows our world class players to shine. The last few weeks have flown by and I can't wait for the Euros to start. Then, thankfully, it'll be down to the football and not the talking!

CO-HOSTS AND CO-HOPELESS?

➔ "THE LOWEST ranked team in Euro 2012 at 65 in the world, they'll be under pressure in the opening game against Greece, but they haven't scored in their opener at a major finals in six attempts, going back to 1974!"

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"Only one defeat in 12 games suggest a team that will be difficult to beat. But will bore draws be enough to qualify?"

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP A

➔ 2ND

"If they beat Greece in the opener they can qualify for the quarters for the first time, but no further."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

"Jakub 'Kuba' Blaszczykowski - the captain can supply the strikers and score goals."

STRENGTHS

"They're defensively tight, conceding just ten goals in their last 14 games. Robert Lewandowski is a threat, having bagged 30 goals for Dortmund last season, plus they have a weak group and home backing."

WEAKNESS

"They rely too heavily on Lewandowski as the main striker. They've played plenty of friendlies, but their opener will be their first competitive match since 2009 and they lack tournament experience."

RUSSIA

THEY'D LOVE TO WIN IN NEIGHBOURING UKRAINE. AND THEY JUST MIGHT!

➔ "ONE OF my dark horses for the tournament. Russian football is on the up as they build towards the World Cup they're hosting in 2018. They did well four years ago and can certainly reach the quarter-finals at least."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"Unbeaten in 13 with nine clean sheets, Russia will be difficult to break down. Focused. Settled. Tough opponents."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

"Alan Dzagoev is a 21-year-old playmaker and regular goal-scorer who's a real talent."

STRENGTHS

"Manager Dick Advocaat's consistent selections have produced real strength and solidarity. Pavel Pogrebnyak has regained sharpness at Fulham while Arshavin and Pavlyuchenko are back in good form."

WEAKNESS

"Much will depend on the mood of Andrey Arshavin. Keeper Igor Akinfeev has had injury problems, Pavlyuchenko has criticised Advocaat in the past and there are some big egos in that dressing room."

BONKERS EURO FACT!

✱ It's thought the average Russian drinks somewhere in the region of 18 litres (32 pints) of pure alcohol a year. Hopefully, their players will stick to softies.

WEAKNESS

"An opening win over Denmark should give them a boost to help stay ahead of Germany and Portugal."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

▼ "Wesley Sneijder. If he's buzzing, he can control the tempo, create and score."

STRENGTHS

"They have such talented players like Wesley Sneijder, Arjen Robben and Robin van Persie, while Klaas-Jan Huntelaar was the leading scorer in Euro qualification with 12 goals. They have grit to add to the flair, too."

WEAKNESS

"Sneijder has been dogged by injuries and poor form all campaign. Centre-backs Heitinga and Mathijsen can also be creaky. They must get off to a good start against Denmark as this is such a tough group."

GERMANY

JUST PRAY WE DON'T END UP IN A PENALTY SHOOT-OUT WITH THEM!

➔ "GERMANY ARE favourites to win their first tournament since Euro 96. They have an outstanding group of players at their disposal and, in a record 11th consecutive finals, they hold all the aces."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"They won all ten qualifiers and a recent 5-3 reverse to Switzerland occurred without any Bayern players in the side."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

▼ "Samy Khedira was formidable in their flawless qualifying campaign."

STRENGTHS

"This team is the result of 12 years of planning after the Euro 2000 flop. It's a young squad but Manuel Neuer's a top keeper, Khedira and Ozil can create and Klose and Gomez are potentially full of goals."

WEAKNESS

"Can't find many! Boateng sometimes lacks positional sense at right-back, while Gomez failed to impress at Euro 2008 and the World Cup. They'll also carry heavy pressure, so they may start slowly."

→ "THE 1992 winners deserved more praise for finishing above Portugal in qualifying but they won't get too much joy in this summer's Group of Death. Perhaps they'll hold out for one draw but not much more."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"They'd won five in a row until Russia beat them in February, but a 3-1 reverse to Brazil last month wasn't encouraging."

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP B

→ 4TH

"Being drawn in this group has surely killed their chances. A point or two is surely their best hope."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

▼ "Michael Krohn-Dehli scores regularly from wide and can feed Bendtner up front."

STRENGTHS

"Their defence conceded just six goals in qualifying. Liverpool's Daniel Agger will be vital at centre-back and they have a settled team. They've already beaten Portugal on the way to qualifying."

WEAKNESS

"There are concerns at the back, and keeper Thomas Sorensen's injury was a blow. Flying winger Rommedahl's best days appear to be behind him and Bendtner can be profligate in front of goal."

BONKERS EURO FACT!

✱ There are no mountains in Denmark. They do have a few hills, but the highest, Yding Skovhøj, is only 173 metres at its peak.

→ "WITH THEIR flair players they could challenge, but they'll do well to get out of the group. They've been unfortunate in the knockout stages of the last four Euros, so they deserved a better slice of luck than this!"

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"They only drew in Poland in February and couldn't score against Macedonia last month, so they're hardly on fire."

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP B

"Volatile tempers and the likes of Pepe falling foul of referees will cost them in the toughest group."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

▼ "Despite poor club form, Helder Postiga gets goals in big games for his country."

STRENGTHS

"They have very good players. Keeper Rui Patricio kept 23 clean sheets last season. Fabio Coentrao attacks from left-back and Meireles, Nani and Ronaldo can destroy anyone on their day."

WEAKNESS

"Big egos and off-field troubles can cause problems. They were inconsistent in the group and had to beat Bosnia in a play-off. They can be too reliant on Ronaldo and Pepe is indisciplined."

"They'll win the group and reach the semi-finals. But Germany might be waiting there – could be interesting!"

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

"Jordi Alba of Valencia – a full-back who attacks with speed and desire."

STRENGTHS

"A settled side that start as worthy favourites. The rhythm of their tiki-taka passing style is hypnotic. Xavi and Iniesta can pass teams to death, Silva has had a good season and Torres is back in form."

WEAKNESS

ITALY

WILL THEY GET A BUNGA-BUNGA AFTERPARTY IF THEY WIN?

"AFTER A first-round World Cup exit, Italy have finally said goodbye to most of the 2006 World Cup-winning side. Defensively, they look very durable. But the jury is still out on them at the highest level."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"They lost to the USA in February and Uruguay in November, but they beat Spain last year and grind out wins."

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP C

→ 2ND

"They may nick a point off Spain in their opener and should take four points from Ireland and Croatia."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

"Mario Balotelli could star, shine, score or be sent off, but he's always watchable!"

STRENGTHS

"Keeper Gigi Buffon captained his country to its best ever unbeaten Euro qualifying campaign. Midfield maestro Pirlo has had a great season, De Rossi is underrated and the defence looks sound."

WEAKNESS

"Montolivo and Marchisio have yet to prove themselves in international tournaments. It's a team in transition – striker Antonio Cassano is still far from fully fit and Mario Balotelli can't always be relied on."

BONKERS EURO FACT!

Italy has more hotel rooms than any other nation in Europe. With 40 million tourists a year, they're the world's fourth most visited nation. And 39 million of them pose for a "pushing it back straight" shot at the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

GENUINE ITALIAN INSULT

IRELAND

THE TEAM WE CAN ALL SUPPORT AFTER ENGLAND'S INEVITABLE EXIT!

"IN 34 years of globe-trotting, the Irish have given me some of my favourite memories. It's great to have them back at a major tournament and no one will relish facing them as they always give it a right good go."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"Unbeaten in 13 games as of the end of May, with ten clean sheets in the process, they're not looking too shabby!"

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP C

→ 3RD

"They can beat Croatia to get the fans singing and they'll worry Italy. I can't see them being humbled."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

James McClean has pace, trickery and confidence, and shows no fear."

STRENGTHS

"Giovanni Trapattoni's tactical knowledge. There are no star egos, just good pros throughout. They'll be a match for anyone in commitment, and Kevin Doyle is a centre-forward who can be a real handful."

WEAKNESS

"No one will relish an early meeting with the Irish although ageing legs may count against them as the tournament goes on. A lack of pace at the back could be a worry if 'Trap' relies on experience."

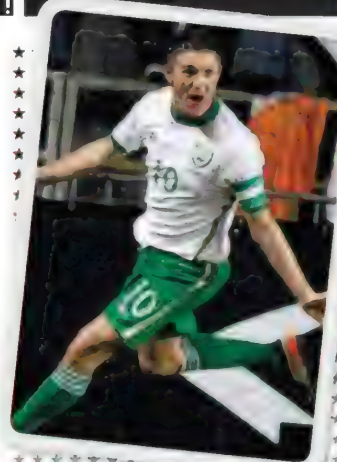

BONKERS EURO FACT!

Some sources suggest that the average Irish person drinks in the region of 228 pints of beer a year. Only the Czechs drink more!

GENUINE IRISH INSULT

STAR PLAYER

"Robbie Keane has proven ability at big tournaments. Can he come good again?"

CROATIA

A FEW YEARS AGO THEY'D HAVE BEEN IN THE MIX. BUT NOT NOW!

"FOUR YEARS ago, Croatia looked like going all the way after beating Germany. But they were over-confident and went out on penalties, and that was the watershed for Slaven Bilic's side, who look a fading force."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"Nothing special, frankly. They drew in Ireland and France last year but Sweden beat them easily in February."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

Ivica Olic was recalled for the play-off against Turkey and can be dangerous."

STRENGTHS

"There's no doubting this squad's talent. Kranjcar, Modric, Srna and Olic are all gifted, Jelavic has shone for Everton, and Pletikosa has won his place back in goal now and should prove a safe pair of hands."

WEAKNESS

"Political problems in their domestic game, dwindling confidence in coach Slaven Bilic and an ageing squad do not bode well. They have surprised us before, but a lack of fight may cost them against the Irish."

BONKERS EURO FACT!

It's a popular tradition at Christmas time in Croatia to decorate Christmas trees with bundles of wheat and biscuits. Because obviously tinsel is just silly.

GENUINE CROATIAN INSULT

STAR PLAYER

"Nikica Jelavic could emerge as the tournament star if they progress."

UKRAINE

CO-HOSTS BUT NO CHANCE!

"THE CO-HOSTS are competing in their first Euro finals. They'll have home support, but a divided dressing room will leave coach Oleg Blokhin needing some luck and a poor England showing to progress."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"A 3-3 draw with Germany has been the highlight of Blokhin's second spell that started with four defeats in five games!"

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP D

→ 3RD

"My fear is that their final group game against England will turn into a cup final with a home victory."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

"Andriy Yarmolenko is a Dynamo Kiev forward with power and pace."

STRENGTHS

"Blokhin certainly has pacey, gifted players who can score goals. Yarmolenko will supply Artem Milevski and Andriy Shevchenko if the latter is fit. Anatoliy Tymoshchuk has also been in good form."

WEAKNESS

"They have major problems in goal, with Oleksandr Shovkovskiy and two deputies out. The defence looks cumbersome, and Andriy Shevchenko is unlikely to be fit enough to play in all of their games."

GENUINE UKRAINIAN INSULT

"Ti gryazny kochel! Ti hueplet!"

"You dirty Ukrainian scum! You're a poor s weaver."

STAR PLAYER

"Andriy Shevchenko would love to have one last hurrah on the biggest stage."

JONATHAN PEARCE'S EXPERT GUIDE TO GROUP D

FRANCE

LET'S HEAR IT FOR THE CHEESE-EATING SURRENDER MONKEYS!

"DARK HORSES to win the tournament. Coach Laurent Blanc has strung together the longest unbeaten run of all the finalists. Now it's time to repair a once glorious but now tattered reputation."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"The win in Germany in February showed how far they've come, although they struggled to beat Iceland in a warm-up."

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP D

→ 1ST

"As in Euro 2004, I think they'll beat England in the opener, win the group and reach the semi-finals."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

"Franck Ribery - electrifying at his best, running at defences from deep positions."

STRENGTHS

"They're well-balanced and capable throughout. Lloris is excellent in goal, centre-back Rami has progressed, while Ribery and Nasri can change a game instantly. Up front, Benzema is also on song."

WEAKNESS

"They don't score enough goals. Benzema has often failed to reproduce his club form for his country, while Nasri has enigmatically drifted out of games. And is Patrice Evra still the player he was at left-back?"

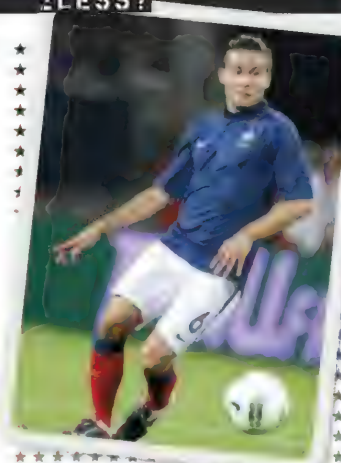

BONKERS EURO FACT!

* It's illegal to name a pig Napoleon in France. This is why the pig of that name in George Orwell's novel Animal Farm is called César in the French translation. Quelle horreur!

GENUINE FRENCH INSULT

"Ta mère suce des ours dans la forêt!"

"Your mother sucks bears in the forest!"

STAR PLAYER

"Yohan Cabaye's astute passes created so many goals for Newcastle."

ENGLAND

EARLY EXIT HERE WE COME!

"NEVER HAVE we expected so little! Capello's exit, Hodgson's underwhelming appointment, Rooney's suspension, Wilshere's injury... it's been miserable. The quarter-finals would be an achievement."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"Prior to their final warm-up, England lost just three of their previous 23. But against top sides they've succumbed."

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP D

→ 2ND

"Beating Sweden looks essential, as does avoiding defeat to Ukraine. They are capable of that. No, really!"

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

"Joe Hart - Man City's number one could be one of the top keepers at Euro 2012."

STRENGTHS

"Joe Hart is a very good keeper, Ashley Cole is still one of Europe's best left-backs, Steven Gerrard has a big tournament left in him and Wayne Rooney will be back for the third game against Ukraine."

WEAKNESS

"Hodgson has had little time to prepare. The Terry/Ferdinand issue has been distracting, Wilshere's absence leaves a lack of pace in midfield, and Rooney's suspension is a big blow to our chances."

BONKERS EURO FACT!

The world's shortest war was between England and Zanzibar in 1896 and lasted all of about 40 minutes. England won after sinking Sultan Khalid's royal yacht and avoiding a few token shots fired from his palace. Boring or what?

GENUINE ENGLISH INSULT

Take your pick, Johnny Foreigner!

STAR PLAYER

"It has to be Steven Gerrard. He's a leader who can inspire England."

SWEDEN

AT LEAST THEIR LADY FANS WILL BE FIT!

"THEY QUALIFIED as the best group runners-up, three points behind the Netherlands. Yet on the evidence of their dour performance against England last November there's little chance of them getting far."

PRE-TOURNAMENT FORM

"They were beaten by Denmark and were poor against England, but beat Holland in qualifying and Croatia in a warm-up."

WHERE THEY'LL FINISH IN GROUP D

→ 4TH

"I can't see them winning a game, but if they draw with Ukraine it could be tough for England to qualify."

ONE TO LOOK OUT FOR

"Seb Larsson works hard and can score great goals when the mood takes him."

STRENGTHS

"They were high scorers in qualifying, but a third of their goals came against San Marino. The Swedes do have talent, though, and Isaksson, the keeper, is dependable, while Olof Mellberg is solid at the back."

WEAKNESS

"They haven't won a knockout match at any major finals since the 1994 World Cup. Ibrahimovic is an enigma wrapped up inside a riddle, and Mellberg seems their only really class defender."

BONKERS EURO FACT!

One of the most popular souvenirs with people visiting Sweden are the road signs for moose crossing. Every year a huge number are stolen from Swedish roadsides.

GENUINE SWEDISH INSULT

"Ta dig i röven din jävla idiot!"

Grab yourself in the arse you damn idiot!"

STAR PLAYER

"It has to be Ibrahimovic. But can he score against the top sides?"

NUTS TALKS 'THE EUROS' WITH...

KAMMY AND MERSE!

NUTS' FOOTY
PUNDITS ON ENGLAND &
IRELAND'S CHANCES

Hello Merse and Kammy!
What did you chaps make of the recent tabloid mickey-taking of Roy Hodgson?

Merse: I think it was wrong. I played in the team when Graham Taylor got called "turnip-head" but that was after bad results. You've got to give the man a chance – he's a respected man in football.

Kammy: As a man who works for a certain tabloid newspaper on a weekly basis, I have no comment!

Is Roy the man for the job?

K: He'll get them organised. If you look at what he's done at West Brom, and what he did at Fulham, it was superb. He wasn't given a proper chance at Liverpool. His teams are hard to beat – what's wrong with that?

M: I thought Harry Redknapp would get the job. I feel sorry for Roy, because if England draw their first game or lose by the odd goal then people will be like, "Harry would have done this or that."

What do you think of Poland and Ukraine as the host nations?

K: Everyone should have a chance to host it, but I think it should just be one of the two. Scotland wouldn't accept having to share it with Wales, for example. But we'll have to wait and see.

M: I've played in Poland and it's very hostile. You worry about the violence, and I think there'll be a lot of it.

Are you sick of England failing to deliver on the big stage?

M: Yeah, I always sit down with the best intentions of enjoying England games, then think, "Why did I watch that?"

Who do you fancy for the Golden Boot?

M: Gomez from Germany. I think Germany will go a long way and you have to be playing for a team that will go far within the tournament. It's not like the World Cup where you get a "free game" where you might score four goals and make off with the crown.

K: Dare I say Andy Carroll? He's come into form. We've got pace on the wings, so let's get the ball in the box.

If you were both dramatically drafted into the England squad at the last minute what would you bring to the table?

M: A good social!

K: I'd entertain the lads with a rendition of Sing 4 England, out on 3 June.

How can you prepare us for the inevitable disappointment that England will bring?

K: Stay positive. Let's not be negative – until it actually happens! Out in South Africa, England's performances were as bad as anything I've ever seen – walking away from the match was like a wake.

So in that sense, it can only get better.

M: There's no pressure on them this time. The pressure's on the manager – the players will go out and play without fear and express themselves.

What's your penalty shootout advice – smash it or place it?

M: I've taken a penalty in the World Cup and it's like nothing else in football. You get a penalty in a league match, someone gets brought down, a bit of an argument, ball on the spot, take the penalty. What does you in a shoot-out is the walk from the halfway line. You can't practise it. You're on your own. You can't practise that walk. You get the last bloke passing you, telling you you're going to miss – that walk is the problem. If you haven't had a good game, that goal seems to get smaller. I can sit and watch a shoot-out and, virtually every time, tell you who's going to score or miss, just from the way they walk up, and the look on their face.

How far do you think Ireland will go?

K: They'll do fine. They fear nobody and everybody fears them, because they never know what they're going to get.

M: They always upset someone. They haven't been lucky – they were in a tough qualifying group and deserve to be there. I think they'll get through their group.

If you were told that England would win the Euros but only if you ran up and down Oxford Street naked, would you do it?

K: Yes. Unequivocally.

So can we have it on record that if England win the Euros, you'll do a streak?

K: No! I didn't say I would, but I'd do it if it meant we'd win.

Which nation would you actually like to see do quite badly?

M: Well, if Spain do badly we've got a chance. But I'm going to go for France.

K: And if Germany do badly, we've got an even better chance.

Which Premier League players do you think will shine at the Euros?

M: I think Steven Gerrard will have a big tournament. And players like Hatem Ben Arfa could do well.

K: Andy Carroll.

Thanks, guys! Finally, Kammy, you have a straight choice between England winning and Sing 4 England going to number one...

K: England all day long. No ifs or buts, I'm football first. And the song's going to number one anyway!

EURO 2012 CARTOON- ALIKES!

IF SOME OF THE STARS OF EURO 2012 LOOK A BIT FAMILIAR AND YOU CAN'T QUITE FIGURE OUT WHY, WE THINK THESE ANIMATED DOPELGANGERS MIGHT JUST RING A BELL!

ALEKSANDR ANYUKOV

BOBBY (KING OF THE HILL)

The haircut, the piggy face, the look of weary resignation – they're all there. To be fair, though, we'd probably be pretty miserable if we were Russian.

NICKLAS BENDTNER

MR INCREDIBLE

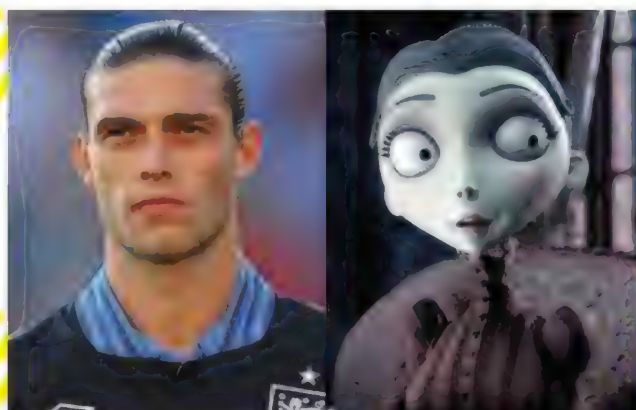

When forced to wear a mask, young Nick is the dead spit of the toon superhero. Coincidentally, "Mr Incredible" is almost certainly the nickname the Dane gives himself.

ANDREY ARSHAVIN

DUG THE DOG (UP)

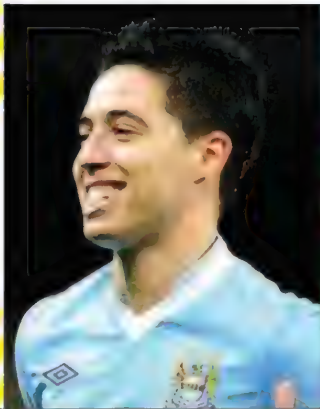

Not just a lookalike, but as any Arsenal fan will tell you, a play-alike too. If anyone's had a dog of a season, it's tiddly Russky Andrey! How's his form been? Rrrrrruff!

ANDY CARROLL

VICTORIA (CORPSE BRIDE)

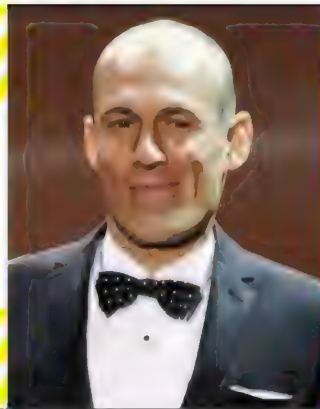

The only player in this list who has actually appeared in a Toon (Toon? Newcastle? Geddit?). And apparently got off with the female half of it. Allegedly.

SAMIR NASRI

QUAGMIRE (FAMILY GUY)

"Samir, it's Man City here. Would you like to come and play for us for £175,000 a week?" "Giggity giggity goo!" Obviously he'd say it in French, though.

ARJEN ROBBEN

ELMER FUDD

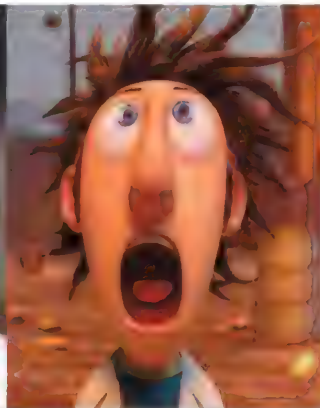

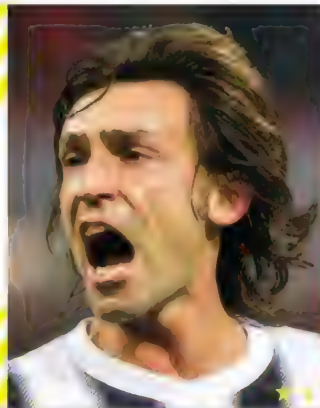

Elmer Fudd: bald, likes shooting, hates rabbits. Arjen Robben: bald, likes shooting. We keep asking if he likes rabbits, but for some reason, he's not returning our calls.

ZLATAN IBRAHIMOVIC

REMY (RATATOUILLE)

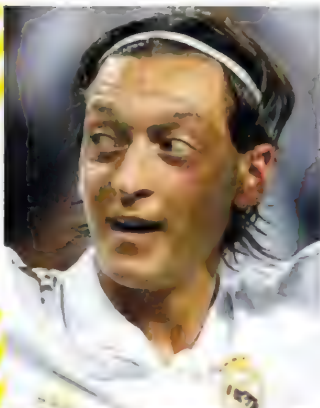

Most of the people who've had to put up with Swede Zlatan's "quirky" personality would probably argue that we're being unkind to homeless rats right now.

ANDREA PIRLO

STEVE (CLOUDY WITH A CHANCE OF MEATBALLS)

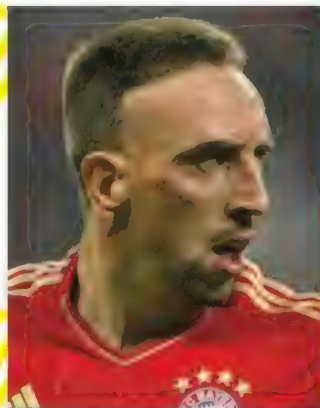

Being Italian, Andrea will have a pretty much constant chance of meatballs. Also of falling over in the penalty area and having bad hair.

MESUT OZIL

STEWIE (FAMILY GUY)

We don't want to be unkind about Ozil (even though he is German), we really don't. But if those eyes were any further apart they could play for different clubs.

FRANCK RIBERY

CLETUS (SIMPSONS)

One of them is a dozy-looking, big-nosed, slack-jawed yokel from a long-running comedy show. The other appears in The Simpsons.

ROSIE JONES

"I'll be rooting for England in the Euros!"

Hi Rosie! How's your summer going?
Hello! I've been sunbathing. I've also been to Ibiza, so lots of going out, partying and causing mischief!

Did you have fun in Ibiza?

Yes, but me and India were sharing a bed and we found out that it was infested with spiders. We ended up sharing a duvet on the floor.

What was the last really wild night out you had?

I had a really great night with Holly Peers and we ended up staying in a hotel and being told off by the security guard for making too much noise.

What's this video of you doing a crazy dance on YouTube we saw recently?

I can't believe you've seen that! It was on a shoot where they were playing loads of cheesy music so I was just being silly. I was copying an American model called Kate Upton.

Will you be watching the Euros?

Oh yes – it's all pretty exciting. I'm hoping England do brilliantly and I'll be down the pub rooting for them.

What was the last thing that really made you laugh?

Well, whenever I share a bed with India we always just tell each other the weirdest stories, and they make us both laugh so much that we end up crying.

Fair enough. What about the last really great film you saw?

The new American Pie was pretty good. I was really excited to see it after meeting Stifler when he took over Nuts.

Thanks for the chat, Rosie!

Finally, what are your plans for the rest of summer?

Well, I'm off back to Ibiza soon and I want to go to Vegas with India because we love it there.

Will you send us some snaps?

Ha-ha! Yes, of course.
Lots of cheeky ones!

"Whenever I share a bed with India we tell each other the weirdest stories!"

FRANCE VS ENGLAND

MONDAY • ITV1, 4pm

The serious stuff begins for Roy's boys!

Friday 8 June

Poland vs Greece

BBC1/HD • 4.15pm

Euro 2012 kicks off with the host nation, who surely have no chance of winning (but then neither do co-hosts Ukraine either), facing a nation who could barely afford to turn up. Greece won the tournament in 2004, but as curtain-raisers go, this isn't exactly a glamour tie. Still this is the opener - it's your duty to watch it!

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'We got it on in a cupboard'

I'VE BEEN seeing my boss but we have to be so careful as his secretary has eyes like a hawk. One lunchtime we ducked into a cupboard and I soon had him in my mouth. A minute or two had passed when he whispered that he was coming. The trouble was, as he was coming, his knees buckled and he stumbled back and slammed into the door. At that point, the secretary opened the cupboard to see what was happening. We told her a cabinet had fallen over during our stationery audit but, unlike me, I'm not sure she swallowed it!

Anon via email

'He had to bite a pillow'

WE'D BEEN staying at my boyfriend's aunt's house in Cornwall for the weekend and, because she's an old-fashioned lady, we weren't allowed to sleep in the same room even though we lived together in London. He was sleeping on the sofa and one night, as I lay in my bed, I couldn't stop thinking of his hot body and had to have some action. I tiptoed downstairs and saw that he was asleep and naked under his thin duvet. I knelt down and pulled back the cover to reveal his manhood. I started to gently lick his balls. As he woke, he looked down with a big grin and whispered that he couldn't believe what I was doing. I continued to give him head while he bit a pillow to stop himself from shouting out. After I'd finished him off, I crept back upstairs satisfied.

Lisa Stratford

'I parted my legs wider'

I WAS in the cinema with my man and the film was getting so boring that I yawned. He noticed this and slid his hand down the back of my skirt and onto my bum. This made me very horny so I parted my legs a little wider. He winked and pushed my knickers aside before pushing his fingers into me. I groaned with pleasure and slid one of my hands down his pants and started rubbing slowly. I could tell he was enjoying this by the growing bulge between my fingers. Eventually the film ended but we were still playing with each other and hadn't orgasmed. I couldn't wait any longer. I grabbed his hand and pulled him into the toilets, which were deserted as everyone had gone home. We went for it in a cubicle and managed to get in loads of positions. In fact, I think we might have to go to the cinema again next week!

Greta Manchester

'What a way to cheer up'

ON MY way back from Sunderland after Man United lost the league to Man City, I got chatting to a guy about how gutted we were. Needing the loo, I walked to the back of the coach and sat on the back seat as I waited for the loo to be vacated. Suddenly, the lad I'd been talking to asked me if I wanted cheering up. He gave me a cheeky wink and I saw the bulge trying to escape from his shorts. We squeezed into the toilet where he pulled off my Man United shirt, revealing my bouncy boobs. He pulled on a condom and before I knew it, he was inside me and we were slamming into the toilet door. As the coach sped up so did he until I felt shivers running through me!

EXCLUSIVE!

Swanny: 'I'm a comedy genius!'

England's spinner on the Windies, grumpy Jimmy Anderson and touring South Africa!

➔ Hi Swanny! England have already won the series against the West Indies with a Test to go. What can we expect for the rest of the summer?

We have to win the next Test – no one here is interested in taking their foot off the gas, that's for sure. We've performed really well but we're barely into the summer. We want to win this series 3-0 and then gear up for the Tests against South Africa.

England look in brilliant form though, you must admit.

It was up to us to get back on track after the winter [when England lost the series against Pakistan] where we played some pretty rubbish cricket – and that's being kind to us. Loads of people, probably rightly, were looking at us and asking whether we were the real deal. We ended up lacking confidence, which was unusual for us. Now, I think, we're showing we deserve that No.1 ranking in the world.

What makes England so powerful in the Test arena, apart from your own genius with the seam, of course?

We've got a brilliant bowling line-up which will take 20 wickets in most games. And the back-up bowlers would probably walk into most other sides in world cricket. Not bad, huh? Our batsmen, who we know have the easier job – ha-ha! – also score big runs more often than not. If I'm batting at nine or ten, we must have a good batting unit!

The team spirit seems pretty amazing in the England camp. Is it a fun place to be right now?

If you win a lot, everyone gets along. We actually hate each other when we lose! Seriously, though, this group are mates, but we never forget that we're paid to play cricket. We're all professional people, of course, and the desire to win and also the work behind the scenes is incredible. But the joy of playing a sport you love with your mates is a really powerful thing.

Do you and Jimmy Anderson still take the mickey out of each other all the time?

Yeah, but it's not really a contest, I'm afraid. He's the world's grumpiest man and I'm a comedy genius.

Does the grind of the international schedule take its toll on you mentally?

It's hard work, no doubt about it. But is it actually work when you think about it? Not really. Physically, we're totally prepared and we ride along on a wave of enjoying the good results and each other's individual success. Personally,

I still get a huge buzz before every Test match – I'm like a kid at Christmas, without fail. Honestly, I can't see that ever changing.

Are England the best Test team ever?

They certainly have the best spinner. I can't remember his name though – ha-ha! I wouldn't be anywhere near arrogant enough to compare our group with teams of the past. We're good, but only time will tell how good we actually are in the larger scale of things.

Later in the summer you come up against South Africa, your main rivals for the No.1 Test ranking. How do you see that going?

I think we'll win, but then I would say that. I think it's going to be a real cracker – a series that everyone around the world will be fascinated by. It's a shame the series is only three matches, but I think we'll pack plenty into it. I'm chomping at the bit to get started, to be honest!

● The third Test between England and West Indies begins on Sky Sports 1/HD, 10.30am, Thursday.

"Gis a job!"

Jolly Rodgers is right for Anfield!

Paul Lambert also deserves his chance to shine at Villa Park

➔ SO LIVERPOOL have finally got their man. Brendan Rodgers is a fantastic coach and someone who demands that football be played the right way – something that will suit the Anfield fans down to the ground.

I know Brendan well – we climbed Mount

Kilimanjaro together last year. He's a lovely guy and I wish him all the best. I have no doubt he has the attributes and strength of personality to win over the big names in the Liverpool dressing room, but he must be given time.

As for Paul Lambert, it's a shame things have soured between him and Norwich, but you can understand why Aston Villa would be interested in such a talent. They have great support and a cracking ground, they're just waiting for the right man to lead them to some trophies. Lambert's a top-drawer manager who could do just that.

"Damn! Scuffed it again!"

A Carrick conundrum!

ENGLAND'S INJURY problems seem to be mounting ahead of the Euros – first Gareth Barry, now Frank Lampard. It makes Michael Carrick's exclusion all the more puzzling to me. England really don't have a player like him – he's an excellent passer, has won four league titles and a Champions League medal, yet Roy doesn't want him!

I know Carrick has said he'd only be interested if he actually got to play, but surely he'd stand a chance with other midfielders dropping like flies.

Oh well, Jordan Henderson it is, then. He hasn't had the best of seasons, but you never know – he'll probably end up scoring the winner in the final!

● Send jokes, comments, pics etc to kammy@ipcmedia.com. The best one each week wins a signed Nuts T-shirt!

United must go for Modric!

I KNOW Shinji Kagawa is on his way to Old Trafford but for me Man United still need a top-class ball-playing midfielder to challenge for the title next season. They missed out on Eden Hazard but Luka Modric has to be an option for Fergie – he'll cost £35m but is worth every penny. Get the chequebook out, Sir Alex!

His attempt to join in the Mexican wave lacked conviction

France vs England

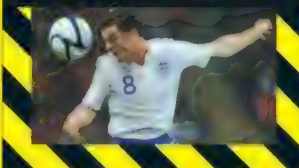

11 JUNE • ITV1/HD, 5pm

I'm not having all this doom and gloom about Roy Hodgson's boys. I think England are going to give the French a good pasting and get the fans back on side. I also fancy Andy Carroll to get on the score sheet. Let's think positive and get behind the lads. Come on England!

PREDICTION: 0-2

Key man

Scott Parker's the man for me – he represents England's steel and passion and will have a key role protecting the back four.
